ACEIDD and ACEIDD :

The key phrase for us is « Professional Support » for economic actors in Africa through the Mega Economy Program so that they can :

1. Strengthen their participation in sustainable development by respecting environmental and humanitarian aspects;
2. Eliminate their external debts;
3. Benefit from opportunities for the economic development of their respective countries.

This program will allow them to develop a real economy in their countries without creating debt.

Since the independence of the 1960s, Africa has not been able to initiate a true takeoff. Many forecasters outline the destiny of the 'Cradle of Humanity' for the next fifty years. But upon closer examination, it is not ideas that our continent lacks, but the essential means for its real takeoff.

Yes! Everyone desires that alternatives and appropriate solutions be provided to their immediate needs, and that the plans and programs decided today positively impact the future of society as a whole. This is the very definition of sustainable development officially accepted. However, what do we observe globally in the case of Cameroon?

1. In the north of Cameroon, rural producers have no choice but to cling to agricultural production—especially cotton—and livestock, the two main industrial export products capable of providing them with significant and recurring income;
2. In the forest regions, it is still the industrial export crops that invade all arable land: cocoa, coffee, rubber, oil palm.

We were therefore, at our modest level, in search of a model and means of development that could provide satisfactory answers to our concerns:

- a. Act for programs or projects of significant size in order to drive development in a given area or region, and not just provide substantial gains to the promoters alone;
- b. Have costs that do not strangle the programs or projects;
- c. Have a sufficiently effective framework to ensure the successful completion of the program or project.

And this model is provided to us by the Mega Economy Program (M. E. P.) as a sustainable constitutional legal and economic solution, and the 4th Generation of Finance (4GF) as a conventional legal and economic alternative, led by ACEIDD (IECASD), a partner of our national association ACCEIDD.

These perfectly innovative concepts for promoting sustainable development appear to us as the model, accompanied by the appropriate means that suit us for Cameroon and Africa. Therefore, we fully subscribe to the three pillars of its implementation, namely:

1. The Participants who are the holders of funds, technology holders, and know-how holders. These international Participants only intervene for sustainable development programs and/or projects of acceptable size;
2. The Acceptants (beneficiaries) who are the States, various legal and physical persons, members of our national associations, subscribing to the charter and principles of the MEP;

3. The Programmers, credible and indispensable interfaces for the proper conduct of the program. In the case of Cameroon, these are the ACEIDD and the ACCEIDD.

ACCEIDD, with its sectoral commissions, will support and guide all program and project holders in partnership with ACEIDD, with its sectoral commissions and its continental, regional, and national associative directorates, to make the (M. E. P.) and the 4GF (4th Generation Finance) the solution and alternative development for developing countries, especially without increasing their already suffocating debt levels.

To learn more about 'the New Vision of Sustainable Development' of the Republic of Cameroon, we invite you, 'the development program holders,' to participate in our Scientific and Professional Conference and Training. If you are seeking financial support, we invite you to register before September 15, 2025.
